

Head of Programme, Projects and Technical Services

£51,000 - £55,000 pa
Hendon Ref: EST222P

In this senior management role, you'll lead a dynamic team on a wide variety of exciting projects.

Based at our flagship Hendon campus in north west London, you'll join the multi-disciplinary Estate and Facilities management team, which delivers day-to-day services, along with a significant ongoing campus consolidation programme. It's flexible and vibrant, with many opportunities to develop. What's more, you'll work alongside another senior manager to bring all our services together as one team.

To succeed, you'll be an experienced, professional and authoritative Technical and Programme or Property Manager. Used to working in complex multi-site organisations, you'll have extensive experience in managing environmental sustainability improvement projects. You'll also have a relevant degree, along with significant relevant experience. Having recently developed and implemented value for money initiatives, you'll have a firm grasp of property development and management disciplines.

Adept at delivering complex major projects on time and on budget, you'll have further experience in successful and innovative environmental sustainability improvement initiatives. In addition, you'll have the ability to provide clear purpose and direction, to lead, motivate and focus your team. A flexible problem solver, you'll be a good communicator with a strong customer focus.

In return, you'll enjoy a competitive salary, generous annual leave, extensive staff development provision, and a final salary pension scheme.
