

Project Risk Manager
c£45k + excellent benefits
Central London

The London Underground Projects Directorate is responsible for the successful delivery of London Underground Limited (LUL) projects and those of the PPP Infraco contractors, PFI suppliers, or other third party suppliers. These are truly massive endeavours - over the next nine years the value of the projects runs in to £billions - and they will be delivered by teams of the very best programme and project management professionals in the business. This is your opportunity to be one of them.

As one of our Project Risk Managers you will provide crucial project risk management advice and guidance on one or more of our high-profile infrastructure projects, ensuring that risk is fully integrated into the budget and programme for those projects. You'll be tasked with leading the projects risk management function across a programme or project, establishing and maintain the project risk management strategy, processes and procedures.

We are looking for people who can bring us considerable experience of personal responsibility for projects risk management for projects up to £10m in value. For a challenge like this you'll need expert knowledge of best practice in projects risk management processes and a good knowledge of risk simulation and management software such as 'Risk', 'Predict', and 'Crystal Ball'. An understanding of the process of development, including budgeting and programming, of a railway system in an urban environment will enhance your application.

To apply please visit tfl.gov.uk/jobs and search reference number TfL09802.

Closing date: Friday 26th March 2010

We want to be as diverse as the city we represent and welcome applications from everyone, regardless of age, gender, ethnicity, sexual orientation, faith or disability.
