

Joined up thinking for Project & Programme Management

Interim Project Management Positions

The Projects Group Ltd (TPG) is a well established project and programme management training and consultancy organisation with a reputation for quality and innovation. TPG is unique in terms of its breadth of products and services, designed to support organisational maturity and the development of professional communities of practice.

To maintain our growth and to meet the needs of our clients TPG is inviting applications from candidates interested in joining our pool of interim project managers.

Interim Project Managers

The success of our unique approach has led to an increasing number of our clients asking us to provide them with candidates for their internal interim project management needs. Therefore we are looking for experienced project or programme managers interested in being put forward when such opportunities arise.

You should have at least 5 years experience as a project manager, programme manager or in running a project support office. You will hold one or more project or programme management qualifications.
